Traffic Accidents, Drownings And Fireworks Cause Huge Casualty List

Nearly 20 Dead In Pennsylvania Fourth Mishaps

Two Hundred More Are Reported Injured In Key-

FIREWORKS CAUSE OF FOUR DEATHS

Traffic And Drownings Account For Many Of Fourth Casualties

(International News Service)
Fourth of July celebrations throughout Pennsylvania took almost a score of lives and resulted in injuries to nearly two hundred persons, a survey by International News Service today revealed.

Fireworks were blamed for only four of the deaths thus far reported, but accounted for burns and injuries to 169 persons, the majority of them children, with probably scores of others unreported.

Philadelphia, the largest city in the state, reported one death and more than half a hundred injured by fireworks. Pittsburgh and vicinity accounted for three deaths, one of them a three year old boy, and thirty four hurt. Harrisburg had no deaths, but thirty two injuries.

Drownings and Traffic Toll Drownings and automobile crashes each took more lives than fireworks.
Three of the drownings were in Western Pennsylvania, two of them boys and the third a man. Reports of three other drownings in the state came from Roanoke, where an 18-year-old youth lost his life, from Phil-

(Special To The News)
MINNEAPOLIS, July 5.—We sure had a great Fourth, especially after we picked up our morning papers and found that Congress had adjourned the night of the third.

That gave up a cause for having a Fourth, but our enthusiasm was immediately dampened, for the Senate is to meet again Monday. So that means that prosperity will pick up only 50 per cent.

This country has come to feel the same when Congress is in session as we do when the baby gets hold of a hammer. It's just a question of how much damage he can do with it before you can take it away from him.

Well, in eighteen months these babies have left a record of devastation.

Six Are Hurt In Auto Crash

Machines Collide At Crossing
On New Castle And
Butler Road

TWO IN HOSPITAL
SERIOUSLY INJURED

Six persons were injured, two quite seriously, Friday night about 10:30 o'clock, when the cars of Rev. C. G.
Johnston, New Castle, R. D. No. 7, and Alex. Paszint, Ellport, crashed at the Weigeltown cross road on the Butler highway, near which the Smith Service Station is located.

Rev. Johnston was enroute across the Butler highway on the cross road, his machine being about the middle of the road, when the Paszint car, enroute toward Ellhurst, and going at a considerable rate of speed, crashed into the right rear end of the Johnston car, then hit a stump and the top.

Two in Hospitals.
The two more seriously injured persons were rushed to the hospitals in this city, one by a passerby and the other by ambulance, while the others received first aid treatment at homes near the scene.

Richard Headland, aged 12, of Baden, Pa., an occupant of the Johnston car and Ralph Winton, aged 15, of Ellwood, R. D. No. 3, an occupant of the Paszint car sustained the more serious injuries.

The Headland youth was picked up by a passing motorist and rushed to the New Castle hospital, where it was found that he had sustained bad cuts in the head and was suffering from concussion of the brain. X-ray pictures have been taken to determine the full extent of his injuries, it being considered possible that he sustained a fracture of the skull.

An ambulance from this city took

Fire Destroys Home On Farm

Dwelling Of Mr. And Mrs. Joseph Carpenter Near East Brook Burns

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carpenter on their farm, East Brook-Neshannock Falls road, was burned to the ground at 9:30 p. m., when fire started, it is believed, from a defective flue. The furniture on the first floor was saved but all of the other furniture was destroyed with the house which was a frame structure.

The fire started about 9:30 p. m.
and neighbors rushed to the Carpenter farm, but it was impossible to save the structure.

Mooney Still Keeps Up Fight

Says Billings Case Decision
Will Not End Battle
For Freedom

MAINTAINS HE IS NOT GUILTY

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—Undaunted by the action of the California supreme court in recommending to Gov. C. C. Young that he deny the application of Warren K.
Billings for a pardon, Billings and Thomas J. Mooney, America's most famous prisoners in their cells today laid plans to continue their 14-year long fight for freedom and exoneration of complicity in the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing.

The supreme court was 6 to 1 in its recommendation that Billings' application for pardon be denied. Gov.
Young previously had announced the court's recommendations affecting Billings would be followed by him in regard to Mooney.

At San Quentin penitentiary where he is serving a life sentence, Mooney said: "The fight isn't over yet. It's been a long long fight and I'm not licked yet. It is unnecessary to say that I'm disappointed in the supreme court's decision against Billings. The governor has said that our cases are identical and although I hate to believe it I fear the Billings decision will decide my fate for the present."
"I am innocent."
"This thing hasn't been settled yet."

Brisbin Hurt When His Car Overturns

Youth Is Lacerated About Scalp, Forehead And Burned
About Chest

James Brisbin of Lathrop street is in the Jameson Memorial hospital, severely injured and burned as the result of an automobile accident about 10 o'clock last night near Waino, New Wilmington highway.

Brisbin had been at a picnic with members of the Brisbin family and had gone to Pulaski to return some baskets.

Coming home along the New Wilmington highway his car rounded several cars. He ran off the road and in attempting to get back on the highway the wheel hit a rut sending the car into a ditch where it overturned.

Brisbin was pinned beneath the car and was lacerated about the scalp and forehead and in addition was burned about his breast.

W. G. Coates and friends of the seventh ward who were near extricating the youth and rushed him to the hospital.

Pension Costs Mount High

Congress Action Put Pension
Bill For Nation Near $800,000,000

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 5.—The yearly cost of Uncle Sam's debt to veterans of the last three wars will amount to a new high total of more than $800,000,000 as a result of increases voted by the session of congress just closed, a survey disclosed today.

With congress embarking on the nation on a system of disability pensions for World War veterans, the cost may reach close to a billion dollars within the next five years.

The session just ended pension experts declared, was the most liberal in the history of the nation. In addition to the new payments provided for World War veterans, increases were voted to both Civil and Spanish-American veterans.

The annual outlay for compensation, and pensions, with the new increases, far exceeds the total cost of the peace-time maintenance of the army and navy.

Quietest Fourth In Years, Health Officials Term It

Hear Of No Serious Injuries As Independence Day Is Once
More Observed

No emergency calls for tetanus antitoxin for injuries sustained by exploded fire crackers were received by the New Castle health authorities on the Fourth of July, it was reported today.

Officials attribute "safe and sane" celebration to the strict city ban against fireworks.

It is said this is the first year for some time no calls were made for the toxin, administered for firecracker burns.

SHOOTING STAR STRIKES CROWD

(International News Service)
DETROIT, July 5.—Roscoe Vitale, of New Castle, Pa., a representative of a fireworks company, today was to be questioned by police following a panic at a local park which resulted when a shooting star exploded in the midst of a crowd of 50,000 persons.

Fourteen persons were injured in the panic, all seriously. The pyrotechnical display was in charge of the company Vitale represented. He will not be held, police say.

BESSEMER CELEBRATION OF FOURTH BIG SUCCESS

Bessemer was the one spot in Lawrence county Friday where the Fourth of July was celebrated with an old fashioned whoop and a bang. The citizens of this thriving little town didn't have to leave their native hearth for a real time, for the day was one round of pleasure and celebration from the time the sun was up until the moon was more than half done with its evening's work.

For the day the weather couldn't have been more perfect. All day long the sun shone high and bright with never a hint of rain and at the close of the celebration not a one but was satisfied that it was the biggest thing of its kind ever attempted in Bessemer.

A Bessemer Made Product
The celebration might have been termed a Bessemer made product, for it was of by and for Bessemer. The sponsoring body was the Bessemer Boosters' club, with President C. D.
Montgomery as the chairman of the day and Roy Walls, J. A. Johnston and Charles White acting as an executive committee. With them were many committees all of which functioned efficiently.

At ten o'clock in the morning the parade moved out with three bands.

Death Toll For Fourth In Nation Is Upwards Of 150

Casualties For Day Are Up

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS CAUSE MOST DEATHS

New York Has 14 Deaths,
Chicago Ten, And
Pennsylvania 20

(International News Service)
America today counted its cost in dead and injured following a typically boisterous celebration of Independence day, it's birthday.

While it was impossible to accurately compile a complete list of injured, it was thought the toll was up in the thousands, while a conservative estimate of dead was upwards of 150 persons.

New York City alone reported 14 dead and more than 300 injured, while Pennsylvania reported almost a score dead after Fourth of July celebrations, with an estimated 200 hurt.

Chicago reported ten killed and several scores injured while Boston reported eleven deaths. Washington reported six more. Kansas City and vicinity reported fourteen and other cities in all parts of the nation reported additional deaths to swell the total.

Child Dies Of Lock Jaw

Stepping On A Rusty Piece Of Iron About A Week Ago Causes Death From Tetanus

About a week ago while playing about her home on the Hillside-Bessemer road, Angela, the 11 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Genova, stepped on a piece of rusty iron and pierced a jagged hole in her foot. The wound was washed out and wrapped up and no bad results seemed evident at the time, but a few days later the wound became infected and Friday morning tetanus set in, locking the child's jaws.

She was rushed to the Jameson Memorial hospital, where all possible means were done to relieve the child but nothing produced the results desired and about 3 a. m. today she died.

The body has been removed to her home and funeral services will be held Monday at 9:30 a. m. from St.
Lawrence church with interment in the church cemetery.

She is survived by her parents and eight brothers and sisters.

Sunburned cheeks and sunburned flames, painted there at the annual picnic, hikes and rides and a lot of games. Pale complexions are red and fiery, lips cheeks have the hue of the rose, while one might think that a lot of drinking had caused the color that paints the nose. Healthy burns that are not so painful, color that comes from a bite outside color that comes from a day of pleasure, color that one doesn't care to hide. Sunburned cheeks and sunburned noses, just the color that men should be, when the day is spent on the open highway, weathers still warm, and it's ninety

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Pa Newc was asked by a youngster yesterday what the armored tank was doing in this city. A little investigation revealed that it was the new power street sweeper that is in use here, that he was referring to.
The machine has been used on several streets and reports are that it is working well.

Some of the amateur ball players around the city have inaugurated a new style-playing base ball in uniform without any stockings. Not so good. It doesn't look attractive, and isn't a good thing for the players, one would surmise. Pa Newc also recalls that recently he saw a pitcher working for a team on one of the local ball lots attired in overalls.

While summer is just getting away to a good start, we are reminded that the fall fair season is coming on apace. The New Castle fair will be held early in August this season. Let's hope for some real fair weather for once.

Pa Newc has been rather skeptical of the stories about large bass being caught in the Neshannock, but he's convinced now. He saw three that measured at least a foot in length that some skillful anglers had taken from the Neshannock, north of this city, yesterday. They were fine specimens.

There were hundreds of flags flying in the city yesterday in observance of the Fourth, and a large number of them were not flying according to the proper rules of flag etiquette. It seems that it makes no difference how many times these rules are printed there are many who fail to heed them.

Pa Newc notes that the plot along Cascade street that was used for some

Hoover Signs Waterways Bill

Way Is Paved For Starting Work On Local Rivers Project In Near Future

Huge Sum To Be Spent On Improvements Throughout United States

President Hoover signed the rivers and harbors bill, which includes the survey project of the Beaver, Mahoning, and Shenango rivers, before departing on a brief vacation trip Friday morning.

The measure, which provides for an expenditure of $145,000,000 over a period of 15 years, includes many important projects, in addition to the clause providing for immediate survey of the local river project.

In signing the bill, President Hoover stated that it will provide employment for thousands of men. It should be fruitful of decreased transportation charges on bulk goods to our farms and to our industries.

It should result in better distribution of population away from the congested centers.

Local men who have been interested in the project of the measure are elated that the local project has been included in the appropriation bill, and are hopeful that work will be started immediately on the survey of the three rivers.

However, three persons were killed in this vicinity in automobile accidents on the roads jammed with holiday automobiles and two hundred and eighty-five persons were injured by fireworks.

Kansas City, July 5.—Fourteen persons in Greater Kansas City were injured by fireworks yesterday, a check-up showed today.

Springfield, Ill., July 5.—As a result of holiday activities four men today are recovering from bullet wounds while 33 other persons are recovering from fire works burns and injuries received in automobile crashes in Springfield and Central Illinois.

Columbus, O., July 5.—At least 13 Ohioans lost their lives in accidents the Fourth of July, as thousands of persons crowded the highways and bathing resorts, a statewide survey showed today.

Automobile collisions exacted a toll of six lives, six persons were drowned and another died as the result of injuries which he received while he was diving in the Ohio river.

Scores of persons were injured as the result of fireworks accidents, but no deaths were reported.

Railroad Travel Due For Boost Over Week End

Holiday traffic on railroads in the New Castle district was reported as light by road officials today. However, a considerable increase in the number of travelers is expected to take place when out-of-town visitors spending the Fourth with friends start for their homes late today and Sunday.

Travel before the holiday measured up to the Fourth of July traffic of other years, it was said.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Petree and daughter of Reading, have returned to their homes after spending the past week as the guest of relatives and friends in the city, having visited with Mr. and Mrs. O. A. West of Croton avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Chapman of Cumberland avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas West of McCaslin.

for federal buildings in the states. More will come from year to year, until every city has a modern federal postoffice.

The $144,000,000 rivers and harbors bill will pour more gold into the states. The projects authorized under that act were scattered through forty states, including such important developments as the upper Mississippi, the upper Missouri, the Illinois waterway, the Erie and Oswego canal. The connecting canals between the Great Lakes and into-coastal Mississippi flood control.

Then there was a $10,666,000 appropriation for starting work at once on the Boulder Dam project on the Colorado river, which will bring flood control to that waterway and develop a great power project on the site. Its construction will have beneficial results throughout the whole of the far West.

The $15,000,000 army construction program will also get under way at once. This measure authorized new army buildings at forts and posts in a score of states. It will help fifty localities by putting more men to work.

All in all, the federal government probably will spend $300,000,000 in the states during the next twelve months in public improvements. Unless all previous experience is wrong, this should be a tremendous boom to business from one end of the country to the other.

Ralph Wigton, aged 15, who was in the Paszint car to the Jameson Memorial hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from severe injuries of the head and a possible fracture of the skull. The full extent of his injuries had not yet been determined this morning.

Accident Laid Hurt.

The occupants of the car of Rev. Johnston, a sedan, were Rev. Johnston, the driver, the Headland boy and Mrs. D. R. Humphrey, aged 70, of New Brighton. Mrs. Humphrey was quite severely injured but was cared for in a nearby home. She sustained severe cuts about the head and was suffering considerably from the shock of the accident. The injuries of Rev. Johnston were of a minor nature.

Rev. Johnston, according to Deputy Sheriff R. M. McBride, who answered the call for assistance and was on the scene for some time and directed the resulting traffic jam, was running on the cross road at this point and driving across the Butter highway.

He had reached about the middle of the highway, when the Paszint car, operated at a considerable rate of speed struck the right rear part of the Johnston machine, turning it completely around.

The Paszint car enroute toward Ellwood, after hitting the Johnston car, swung to one side into a stump at the side of the road and upset.

The occupants of this car were the driver, Alex. Paszint, Ralph Wigton of Ellwood R. D. No. 3, who was seriously injured and John Mudrick of Ellport, who sustained slight injuries. Paszint sustained a bad cut on one hand.

Report of the accident was made at once to the local authorities asking for assistance and Deputy Sheriff McBride and an ambulance were on the scene in a few minutes.

The father of the Headland boy is now here awaiting the outcome of the injuries of his son.

If you aren't a good judge of faces you can't remember that the boy's criminal never has horns on his head.

What a world! Many societies to prevent opening on dogs, and not a one to prevent the useless de-tossing of children.

PA NEW OBSERVES

years as a baseball diamond is now serving as one of the best truck garden plots in that section. It looks like a large variety of vegetables would come from that plot.

Base ball players were compelled to play behind smoke screens on some of the plots yesterday. Dust was so thick, due to the dry weather, that there was a continual cloud of dust arising from the field where there was any action.

While the plan may not be adopted here, it is interesting to note that another development is taking place in the way of sporting events under the floodlights, at night, horse racing. A some tracks the experiment is being tried, and is said to be working well.

For the first time in many months there are no detours on the main highways leading into New Castle. The only detour in the immediate vicinity of the city at present is the short one around the repaving on Croton avenue.

While the grape vines were killed by frost late in May, they seem to have recuperated nicely. Whether there will be any crop or not is unknown, but the leaves have developed nicely on the vines following the frost.

Street lights are being turned on in New Castle these nights about 9:15 o'clock.

A large percentage of the cars which passed through New Castle on the Fourth carried licenses of other states, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky tags were noted more often than the rest. At Cascade Park it seemed as if every two machines were from outside of Pennsylvania. Pa. New observed ten different state licenses about the parking grounds during the afternoon.

While the city in general heeded the ban against fireworks, Cascade Park picnicers celebrated the anniversary of our Independence in a noisy way. Crackers boomed out at the park all day long. In the evening there was an elaborate display of pyrotechnics.

A lone rabbit, lost in the midway crowds at Cascade park last night attracted the attention of hundreds of people. The animal, which came from no one knew, for his appearance on the scene was a sudden one. Children rushed to catch it, but the bunny proved too elusive. Finally, he braved the throng and darted off, headed for his habitat in the woods.

Another grand and glorious Fourth one into the annals of history, and it surely was a perfect day. Nothing more could have been asked from the weather man, the picnic grounds, the golf courses and amusement parks about the city were full to overflowing and every one seemed to be having the time of their life.

Those who were unfortunate enough to have to spend the day at home yesterday, were almost appalled by the death-like stillness which hung over the city, compared to former years. There was an occasional sputter of a booter firecracker, or some substitute noise-making device, but the law was generally observed.

One Pa New traveled over a hundred miles yesterday, and did not see one automobile accident. Very few accidents were reported, as compared to last Fourth of July.

Traffic wasn't so bad, Friday. Not in the direction of Beaver and East Liverpool, anyway. The number of cars on the roads seemed no more than on a Sunday. However, Pa New heard that the road from Conneaut Lake to New Castle was covered with a solid line of cars.

Did you happen to notice the license plates on automobiles in New Castle, yesterday? There were plates from Ohio, New York, Kentucky, Florida, California, New Jersey, West Virginia and many, many other states. Most of the cars with foreign licenses seemed to be heading in the direction of Cascade Park.

Evangelical Church Enjoys Beach Outing

Members of the Emanuel Evangelical church, with the Sunday School and all organizations, enjoyed an outing on the Fourth at Lakewood Beach.

Early in the morning they began to gather at the beach and by noon almost the entire congregation has assembled and after unpacking the well filled baskets, a sumptuous meal was served, after which a program of races, games and contests of various kinds was carried out.

Swimming and boating were also indulged in and after the afternoon hours were gone, again the tables were set and a bountiful supper laid beneath the trees.

The members pronounced this the best outing they had ever had and hope for many more of the same kind.

STAR LORE OUTSTANDING EVENING STARS IN JULY

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter.

There are five celebrity stars in the evening sky in the month of July: Vega of the Lyre, Altair in Aquila (Eagle), Spica in constellation Virgo (Virgin), Deneb in the tail of Cygnus (Swan), Arcturus in Bootes (the Hunter), and Antares in Scorpio (Scorpion). All are white stars with the exception of Arcturus and Antares, red. In early July Deneb, Vega and Altair are all in the eastern sky. Arcturus in the west. Spica in the southwest and Antares in the south.

Beginning star lore enthusiasts will find it exciting entertainment locating these stars and acquainting themselves with the constellations they are in.

It will be some day. And on that day, I'll be free," said Mooney.

Mrs. Rena Mooney, wife of Mooney, today was secluded at her home, where she teaches music lessons, heart-broken and bitterly disappointed that her husband was not released from San Quentin.

"Maybe, oh maybe, in his big fine way, the governor will let Tom free," Mrs. Mooney said. "The governor did say the other day that he wouldn't be bound the way the supreme court acted. I believe that Gov. Young is fair. If he is fair, he must set Tom free."

that plane stayed aloft for 420 hours and 21 minutes and 30 seconds.

Tired and dirty, the two brothers who were overland miners at Sparta, Ill., emerged from the cabin of their monoplane to face a milling throng, to pose for photographers and to say a few words into the radio microphones.

Ten full minutes elapsed after the landing before police could clear a path to carry the fliers from the plane to a little office which afforded them protection from the crowd. Here the other Hunter brothers, Albert and Walter, were waiting with sister Irene, "quartermistress" of the flight, and their mother, Mrs. Ida Hunter. They hurriedly told of their last few hours in the air and revealed the mechanical problem which led to the decision to come down.

"For some time," Kenneth said, "We had been having trouble with the oil supply. The oil screen was clogged. Next time we'll have two oil screens so one can be in service while we take out the other and clean it."

"As it was, we were constantly losing oil and there was a strong possibility that if we had tried to stay up all night there might have been a 'crack up,' shooting hot oil all over us and over the plane and forcing an emergency landing in the dark."

PETTY, NOT PATRIOTIC

THE minority report of the senate committee on the London naval treaty did not, for all its heat and free use of adjective and epigram, win new converts to the side of the treaty opponents. If anything, it lost them following by betraying the political background of the opposition.

Inspiring this report is a frame of mind which caused the same group in Washington to condemn the Washington Conference agreement of 1922 as having "emasculated" the nation's great superiority in battleship power without commensurate return.

This group has demonstrated itself to be wholly out of sympathy with the whole course of American policy since the war. While the administration, a majority of congress and the great majority of citizens have been thinking in terms of disarmament and world peace, this little body of wilful jingoes has done all it could to foster competitive armaments and to perpetuate war. The logical basis of the minority's present position is against the whole peace work of Washington for the last decade.

This tar the obstructionists in the treaty debate have shown, not that they are performing the patriotic duty of preserving a strong national defense, but that they, apparently for selfish political reasons, can countenance no plan which promises reasonable disarmament and a step toward world peace.

STATE BAR'S VOTE ON DEATH TAXES

Some confusion has been apparent in popular understanding of the Pennsylvania Bar Association's action taken at Bedford Springs on the exemption of small estates from inheritance taxes.

A resolution declared a constitutional amendment was unnecessary for this purpose. The lawyers believe the long-due reform can be effected by a simple enactment at Harrisburg next year.

Waiting for an amendment would entail a loss of five years for enabling acts, since the pending referendum could not be submitted to the electorate prior to 1933. A Supreme Court decision in Commonwealth vs. Knowles last year is understood to give a hint that the General Assembly already has the power to bring this blessing to widows and orphans.

Sound ideas of taxation challenge the present custom of impairing small estates where the cost of collecting the assessment runs disproportionately high to the revenue obtained. This is the practical objection. Overshadowing it is the humanitarian consideration. Small legacies accrue from a family's thrift and good management, in which the wife often plays a sacrificing part. To rob her of the full fruits by taking two per cent of the savings is reprehensible. There is no defense for it.

REAL EVIL OF GAMBLING

"Gambling," says Sir Walter Scott, in the introduction to "St. Roman's Well," is "a vice which the devil has contrived to render all his own, since it is deprived of whatever pleads an apology for other vices, and is founded entirely on the cold-blooded calculation of the most exclusive selfishness."

The prevalence of the vice calls for some straight thinking concerning its iniquity. Too many persons, including "society" folks who play cards and street urchins who roll dice in back alleys, do not consider gambling inherently wrong. Their attitude is that it is only to be condemned if one's losses are so great as to be embarrassing or cause those dependent upon the gambler to suffer. One often hears them say that they look upon their losses as no more than a reasonable outlay for the entertainment that they get from the game. Then, too, they are in the habit of saying loosely that all life is a gamble, that everyone is constantly taking hazards.

They ignore the fundamental fact that gambling at dice and cards is immoral because it is an attempt to win money by making somebody else lose it. There is no way for the gambler to profit except by causing his opponent to suffer.

This is the crux of the matter and must be emphasized if people are to be made to believe that gambling is an evil in itself, independently of whether one can afford to lose. Can one afford to win, or try to win, at the expense of another, should rather be asked.

THE IDLE WORLD

The idle word that stings is as old as human speech. Spoken thoughtlessly or spoken in a moment of irritation, it says more than the speaker meant. At least it says more than he would have said if he had taken second thought. Too often in a hasty moment one who really would not for worlds cause lasting hurt does just that because he reaches for the first remark that will register.

These idle words go deep, deep into the heart and memory of the one to whom they are addressed. There is no way of reaching this harm by laws and courts. There is no way of resolving that one will never say the thing that causes needless hurt, except by resolving to build up a habit in one's life of saying only kindly things until quiet reflection has shown the need of something else.

This is not a text for weaklings, a counsel of meekness to the point of being trodden upon. It was not a weak man who prayed, "Set a watch before the door of my lips," nor a fool who wrote, "She openeth her mouth with wisdom, and in her tongue is the law of kindness."

A Modern Sodom

Three weeks ago when Alfred J. Kille, Chicago Tribune reporter was killed, his murder was asserted to be the gangster's defiance to true citizenship. It still has that broad aspect, but sufficient has been disclosed in the investigation to warrant a belief that it merely was a conversation between one set of racketeers and an initiate in a language which its friends and members only can understand.

Disclosures indicate that the solution of the actual killing, important as it is, is secondary to an expose of the ramifications which made the murder possible. Solution of the assassination, except as it reveals the background to conditions there, is nothing more than an incident in the whole program if Chicago hopes to restore confidence.

The city on Lake Michigan maintains a sort of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde existence among municipalities. Dr. Jekyll's aspect has been displayed to the public, which has greatly admired. It has shown wonderful boulevards, civic development, and a public spirit in everything except government such as no other city in the world has ever exhibited.

Yet that side has been tainted by the characteristics of Mr. Hyde—a corrupt police, crooked administration, alliance between the racketeers and those who enforce the law, a vital indifference to dishonest administration. Now, in the killing of a 65-dollar-a-week reporter, it is disclosed that the man was a daision for the Hyde interests, high and low.

Spotting the high interest is more important in a cleanup than railing against the law.

The rest of the country prefers to see only the Dr. Jekyll side of the city, but it is eclipsed by the person of Mr. Hyde. Unless a merciless, thorough-in-every-detail, persistent expose of all members and beneficiaries of the Hyde band is carried out, the city will be discredited. No halfway measure is possible. Unless the disclosure is complete in every detail, Chicago will stand as the modern Sodom among cities.—THE ST. LOUIS TIMES.

(Copyright, 1930, King Features

Secretary Mellon, keeper of the public purse, announces a satisfactory financial year, and a surplus of $184,000,000 in Uncle Sam's pocket.

Mr. Mellon reduced by $746,000,000 the public debt which now totals sixteen billions, one hundred eighty-five millions. Not much for such a rich country. Business might be better if bonds were not paid off so rapidly.

But Mr. Mellon probably knows best.

In the Chicago Herald & Examiner, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other newspapers, Calvin Coolidge publishes daily a little article of advice, reflecting earnest meditation.

Henry Ward Beecher, Talmadge, Spurgeon, will be edited looking down and reading the short, well written articles, so sound, morally.

Mr. Coolidge's idea, apparently, is first to get us on a high, New England plane of thought, with our minds on our eternal home.

Later, undoubtedly, he will tell the jobless how they can get jobs, realizing that there is no hurry about future bliss, but much hurry about an immediate place on some payroll.

Several years ago, you remember, all the world was excited about mandates. France took one mandate; England, absent-mindedly swallowing German colonies, took others, including Iraq. An effort was made to "wish" Turkey a mandate on this long-suffering nation.

Thanks to Providence, we escaped that. To be Kemal's tutor would be a job.

Now England tells Iraq, in substance:

"Go in peace, join the League of Nations, run yourself."

"That blessed word, Mesopotamia," ancient name for Iraq, has cost the British many millions of pounds.

All that Britain wants now is to keep, without expense, the right to "British imperial communications and air routes," through the territory of the Tigris and the Euphrates.

Babe Ruth "slammed out" his thirty-first home run and is getting on toward forty years of age. That will interest millions.

Goethe "slammed out" the second part of "Faust" when he was 72. That interests few.

Legs and arms rule now. Brains will control men's interest in the future, say, 100,000 years hence.

Frederick R. Coudert, distinguished lawyer, raises an interesting point concerning prohibition, and the statement that the law makes "the mere possession of liquor unlawful."

The courts, according to Mr. Coudert, have decided that it is legal to purchase whisky. Therefore, it must be legal to have it, since it is legal to purchase it, and, therefore, his eminently respectable client who carried whisky on the hip, and mixed highballs in a restaurant, should not have been arrested.

Wall Street goes along, in a dull way, like one recovering from knock-out drops, or a meeting with a hold-up man. The Fourth of July brings three days rest, and perhaps more vigor.

Money was cheap, two and a half per cent. Copper was too cheap, 11 and a half cents at some small smelters.

Farmers that have seen wheat drop below ninety cents a bushel, are disappointed in Uncle Sam's efforts to conquer the market and conquer old "supply and demand."

TO BE ABLE TO WAIT—

Is sometimes worth more than to be able to battle furiously.

Is usually the mark of a strong man.

Is frequently as valuable as the ability to work.

Is as necessary in some cases as enthusiasm.

Is the mark of the self-governed man.

Is often the way in which genius manifests itself.

Is one of the things that makes God different from man.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 7:34. Sun rises tomorrow 4:35.

Maybe the reason there is Not More Celebration of the Fourth of July in New Castle Is Because It Is Not Generally Known Why the Fourth of July Should Be Celebrated. We Are Willing to Bet Our Right Eye Against the Shenango Tin Mill That Many Can Be Found Who Do Not Know What the Fourth of July Means.

There are a lot of people who are against newspaper advertising, this is the kind that has to be paid for. These same patriots sure raise a lot of hell if they are ignored by the very newspapers they would put out of business. Newspapers exist by advertising and nothing else. Kind words do not help a newspaper one bit.

So machines will do all the work in the next war. What a great treat it will be to watch one scratch.

Dear Hints and Dints: Here is the thought I have been holding for years, and living up to; but I wasn't smart enough to express it.

"The fear of death as taught by the clergy; the fear of disease, as fostered by the doctors; and the fear of the law, as disseminated by the lawyers, has created a fog of fear that has permeated us like a miasma, and cut human life short one-third, causing the brain to reel and rock at a time when it should be the serene and steadfast pilot of our lives."

The answer is: Live right, maintain a happy disposition, and fear nothing. If you are not feeling just right, at least think much sense as an animal, leave food alone, until appetite returns. Don't chase to a doctor, or drug yourself. No charge for advice.

And don't preach "hell fire!" It's my opinion we get our heaven and hell here on earth.

As a man says the winning of wealth is proof of superior intelligence, he means he doesn't know any rich men.

Dr. Wiley, who, for about half a century fought for pure food and drugs in this country died in Washington a few days ago. He had an army of crooks to combat who wanted to poison everybody with phony foodstuffs and drugs. To our mind Dr. Wiley was a hero and the crooks tried to put him out of business many times, but tried prevailed and he won against 'em.

Doctors Get Support In Fight Against Government Control

Establishment Of Medical Centers For Equalization Of Fees, Under Control Of Profession, Debated At Convention Of American Association

Sympathetic interest is shown by the public in a proposal, made at the Detroit convention of the American Medical Association, that centers for the treatment of cases be established under control of the profession. This suggestion from the retiring president of the association, Dr. Malcolm L. Harris of Chicago, is offered as a means of preventing government control of medicine, declared to be a tendency in this country and in Great Britain. A resolution was brought up by Dr. William C. Morgan of Washington, incoming president, who urged that medical men protect themselves against exploitation through claims upon their skill by hospitals giving free service.

"The problem Dr. Harris discussed," says the LINCOLN STATE JOURNAL, "is being worked on by various organizations outside the profession. Some medical centers are being worked on or planned, with an endowment sufficient to bear the burden of the mid-level-class worker cannot bear. Medical men, however, have not, as a group, given the problem much attention. Dr. Harris has pointed the need of immediate study, since the profession's independence is threatened, and suggests a remedy that may serve, if tried, to stem the tide."

Value is found by the NEWARK EVENING NEWS in the contention by Dr. Morgan that "if public philanthropy or taxation supports these hospitals, the doctors' ministrations, as part of the service, should be paid for out of the institutions' funds. Not an illogical viewpoint," continues the News, "and this may have much to do with the problem which disturbs Dr. Harris." The latter's suggestion may have value, particularly as the more costly surgical and other specialties of modern medicine. His fears, however, that the free hospital clinic, probably are not grounded in any immediate prospect. Dr. Morgan's implication, that the physician is worth of his hire even if the patient is a pauper, is more promising of relief.

Observing that the association at its convention named a Bureau of Economics to study the major problem of public health, the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL advises that "on the newly established bureau falls the responsibility of preserving the freedom of the medical profession," and offers the judgement as to the future. "The doctor admits that their efforts are not entirely attractive. They are concerned more with the welfare of the medical profession than with that of the patients from the middle classes. They are endeavoring to solve the high cost of sickness problem before legislators put their hands to it, before medicine and surgery are controlled by the State. England is on the verge of socialism in this respect and individualism and individual initiative in medicine are threatened."

The belief that "the demand for better care of those unable to pay is exerting the pressure for revision of medical economics" is voiced by the ST. PAUL DISPATCH, with the contention that "medicine of course, must be democratic to the extent of making the best of practice available to all," and recognition of the fact that "individual physicians have been left to their own devices in providing for those who cannot pay the accepted scale." The SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE points out that "members of the medical associations should face squarely the fact that the threat to them is traceable, in part, to their own failure to lay the truth before the public," that "the profession, under its ethical code, has not discussed fees publicly or acquainted the public with the extent and nature of the various medical services."

Government control of medicine and education of physicians in the government service, according to the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION, "are not, as yet, desirable. This, some day, conceivably may come to pass, but meantime many chances will have to take place. It would be vastly better if the physicians would organize and reduce medical treatment and hospitalization nearer a common standard, a standard which the poor and the "white collar" class could meet more conveniently."

"The American public," avers the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, "looks with the medical profession in depreciating the growth of paternalism and bureaucracy in the United States and in demanding fair play for every liberal profession and every legitimate interest. But it expects broad-minded and candid treatment of any important problem facing the medical or any other profession, of the business world, and voluntary cooperation in wise efforts to solve the problem. That constitutes the best insurance against state action."

"The idea of an exclusive or dominant system of state-owned and state-administered medicine certainly is to be combated," asserts the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, "while conceding that it must be admitted that the progress of the marvelous advance that has been made in the last century, has resulted from the opportunities for more efficient training and experimental study provided by charitable and semi-charitable institutions, not to mention government grants. The News adds: "There will be little critical opinion on the efforts of doctors to maintain their own economic independence of government."

As to the establishment of medical centers for high-grade service at fees within patients' means, the DETROIT NEWS states: "The plan sounds purposeful and progressive. For one thing the great humanitarian work, every physician assumes when he adopts his profession would be spread equitably over all the members of a local association, instead of forming an undue burden those who voluntarily assume the task of good Samaritans. For another thing the profession in assuming control of such an important social activity, would meet in great measure the second phase of the problem as voiced by Dr. Morgan when he said that the hospital, originally an asylum for the indigent sick, has become today the elaborate nursing-home of the well-to-do."

The MILWAUKEE SENTINEL is convinced that "if a way can be found to enable the man of moderate means to obtain medical and hospital attention, at rates which are not prohibitive, the trend toward assumption by the state of the care of private health will be definitely arrested."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SOME ESCAPED

For almost three hundred years, the village of Stratford, Connecticut, named after Shakespeare's birthplace, has clung to its New England traditions.

Now its city directory is blossoming with strange names—Shubert, Siminich, Petroff, Koodroff, Kiselevitch, Toedchoff and other "viches" and "offs."

The advent of Sikorsky Aviation Corp. with almost 1,000 employees, many of whom are royal first emigres, has changed the complexion of the old Connecticut town. Stratford is now a Russian-American village, with a Russian church, Russian social life, and the Russian language frequently heard on Main Street.

DREAM FISHING

A fishing trip I haven't had In twenty years or more Yet now and then, a smiling lad I push away from shore To sit with rod in hand again Where summer breezes blow The self-same fish in and again I caught so long ago.

Grim care has kept me prisoner here And duty held me fast, But still in rippling waters clear At times a line I cast Close to a rocky perch again Where water-lilies float And happily I catch again Those bass of long ago.

The reel I used is rusted old, But still I hear it sing The boat in which I left the shore Is yet a living thing I keep the thrill and rapture of Glad hours once mine to know And oft repeat the capture of Those bass of long ago.

Yes, still a fisherman am I Who dreams his way to sea And knows no power his fancies fly Just what a luck will be Thought old in body, oft again He stands, with eyes aglow And proudly holds aloft again His catch of long ago! (Copyright, 1930 Edgar A. Guest)

Prophetic Subjects Will Be Considered

Rev. G. M. Landis Will Speak On The Second Coming Of Christ In First Baptist

Two sermons on prophetic subjects will be given at the First Baptist church the first two Sunday evenings of July. On July 6th the pastor, Rev. G. M. Landis, will speak on "The Second Coming of Christ—The Hope of the Church." This message will be an exposition of a very familiar passage of scripture. Following are some of the questions which will be considered: Will Jesus Christ actually come back again to earth? Will the dead in Christ actually be raised, and their graves become empty? Will living believers in that day actually be caught up to meet the Lord in the air? Is there any practical value in this doctrine?

On July 13th Mr. Landis will speak on "At The Judgment Seat Of Christ, Or What About Rewards In Heaven?" Some of the questions which will be considered are: Is salvation a reward or a gift? In what sense will Christians be judged after death? Is this judgment to determine whether or not they are saved? For what will Christians be rewarded? Will some Christians be saved but not rewarded? This will be the last message Mr. Landis will give before departing for his vacation.

Franklin Girl Is Reported Missing

Down-River Attempt Postponed From Friday Gets Early Start This Morning

FRANKLIN, Pa., July 5.—Missing since Wednesday afternoon when she went hiking and swimming with 20 other Franklin girls of her own age, the mystery of the disappearance of Frances Haisel, 15-year-old Rocky Grove girl, was solved today.

While police of western Pennsylvania kept lookout for a fair-haired girl, five feet tall, clad in sailor trousers with brown sweater, believing she may have accepted a "lift" from a passing motorist, friends and neighbors began searching along the banks of French creek. Frances had indicated she was not going to swim and told others in the party she was going home. No one has seen her since.

Exclusively for Men and Young Men

Now you can always be sure your clothes will fit like new—have them FORMPREST

It is now possible to have your suit pressed to fit your form, just like it did when it was new. Think what this means to you—to keep your clothes fitting just as well as they did when new. Of course, to achieve this result requires especially adapted machinery, and we have spared no expense to make Formprest Service available to the men of this community.

You know from experience that it is impossible to have form-fitting garments when your suit is ironed or flat-pressed. If there is any question in your mind about this, just take a look at your suit. No collar. No collar is shared—see how the shoulders are formed—look at the contour of your coat front. You can readily see that flat pressing cannot form these parts properly.

With our two complete Formprest Batteries we press every part of your suit to fit your form, just like it did when it came from the maker. No other pressing service can give you the results of FORMPREST.

We gladly call for and deliver your suits FORMPREST to shape. It costs no more than ordinary pressing. Suits formprest, only 50c. Call us today. Smiths, Cleaners and Dyers, phone 885.

Gliders Take-Off Halted By Wind

(International News Service)
ON BOARD THE S. S. SATURNIA AT SEA, (radio) July 5.—A following wind today made it possible for Robert Lewis and Hugh Keavney to take-off with a glider and remain in tow of the Saturnia across the Atlantic.

The two men planned to get in the air behind the big Coslich liner off Ambrose light when they left New York Thursday.

As soon as the winds shifted or lightened, they plan to launch their glider. The glider has been equipped with special wing slots which would aid in holding altitude.

Zion Lutherans Enjoy Picnic All Day Friday

The perfect weather of Friday added much to the enjoyment of the congregation and friends of the Zion Lutheran church when about 190 joined in a picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Anderson, on the Eastbrook road.

During the morning the auto wended their way here and unloaded the guests with well filled baskets, which were taken in charge by the committee and at noon a most sumptuous dinner was served, in which there was nothing missing.

Clearing up the dinner table, the assemblage then joined in a program, which included pep singing, led by a group of girls; a splendid patriotic speech by Rev. J. W. Eckman, pastor of the church and a few remarks from John Bergman.

A program of sports and contests was then indulged in with Andrew Lundeen, Ellwyn Lee and Robert Nelson coming out victors.

The afternoon ended, a picnic supper was then laid for the tired out guests after which each departed for his home. A Sjöholm of Pittsburgh was an out of town guest.

SWIMS LAKE WITH BOTH HANDS TIED

Joseph Bara, Local Youth Covers 8-Mile Milton Lake In 5 Hours' Time

To swim the entire length of Milton Lake, near Youngstown, some eight or more miles long, is no insignificant task by any means, but to swim it with both hands tied is something worth speaking about. Joseph Bara, Sharp street young man did that very thing on Friday.

Bara, an expert swimmer has often covered the lake with his hands free, but yesterday's swim minus assistance from his arms marks the first accomplishment of this sort for him. Few other swimmers have navigated the lake with their hands tied.

Joe dove into the lake near the spillway and continued to the bridge at the far distant end of the lake. He was accompanied by Araceta Aquila, of this city, who escorted him in a rowboat.

Bara covered the eight-mile course in exactly five hours and five minutes.

The day closed with a supper and the members left for their homes anticipating many more

New Side Of Hoover Now Being Presented; President Takes Lead

By ARTHUR C. WIMER

Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 5.—They told a story back in 1927 when the Mississippi river was making an angry effort to fight the bonds of progress of how Herbert Hoover, then secretary of commerce, went South and broke that Democratic stronghold.

The now President was then handy man of the administration and of the country. Was there a threat from labor? Mr. Hoover was called upon to effect conciliation. Were there tangles in the nation's business? Mr. Hoover was summoned to unravel them. Was there irrigation trouble over proposed dams? Herbert Hoover was called into consultation.

And so in 1927 when there was need for flood relief, Mr. Hoover was in the Mississippi valley wearing boots and passing out food and encouragement.

A white man, a planter of the Arkansas river lowlands, spoke the sentiment of the Mississippi valley at that time as he surveyed from a distance a crowd of negroes shuffle closer to the little rostrum at Pine Bluff, near New Orleans. The negroes of Arkansas were giving Herbert Hoover a loving cup and a big celebration in token of their admiration for the boss of the Mississippi flood, who beamed down at them from the rough platform.

"Yes, sir," this planter is reported to have drawn, "we think a lot of Hoover down here, both white and colored."

And a few hours later the man whom the colored people of Arkansas had honored in the only way he would like to be honored, was on a northbound train, smoking silently, reading and occasionally glancing with affection at the loving cup which would soon go on a shelf in his trophy room, along with the gold medals awarded by the Civic Forum, the National Academy of Science of the city of Warsaw.

The Herbert Hoover of the Mississippi flood and the Herbert Hoover of the executive mansion are still the same. Mr. Hoover is still a man who admires sincerity, whether found in the great or the small. He is one of the most approachable and genial of great Americans. He is, to speak in the dialect of the Arkansas negro, "as plain as an old shoe."

But Mr. Hoover, President, is beginning to display a different style of technique than was so characteristic of Mr. Hoover, humanitarian. Only the other day a group of very self-assured White House correspondents stood with eyes popping in astonishment while they listened to this big, good natured appearing man use emphatic language in criticizing the World War veterans' bill just sent to him from Congress.

Back in 1920 Herbert Hoover experienced some bitter days from which he has never entirely recovered. At that time he had presidential aspirations. He was popular with the people known far and wide for his good works, a man to be admired, an individual of the common herd. He was a big man but not too big to be human.

And then came the disillusion! The people wanted him. The politicians did not. And Warren Harding went into the White House.

Mr. Hoover has never quite recovered from his fear of politicians. True, in 1928 he was hurried into the executive mansion by a startling vote because the people still wanted him. But the President was not then sure and is not yet entirely certain that victory could have been his had the politicians ruled against him.

He has tried to avoid offending his political directors and has been inept. For accustomed to subordinating himself to no one, he has blundered in his first attempts. He has been unfortunate in the selection of his political advisers. More than the usual amount of "bad breaks" have come his way since the election in 1928.

But out of this maze of errors and misfortune a new Mr. Hoover seems about to emerge. Perhaps he has gained confidence from the continued approval of the working public. Possibly he has learned that after all politicians aren't so ferocious unless they have the voting quorum endorsing their ferociousness. At any rate, Herbert Hoover, the executive, is changing, although Herbert Hoover, the man, will remain the same.

This man who is big without being fat, and whose hands are plump without being soft, is overcoming his fear of those who make ugly political faces at him. He is growing up. He is feeling his way. But with Congress away this summer Mr. Hoover will be at his best. He will have free reign, will follow his careful engineering methods of reasoning.

That most caustic review of the Rankin World War veterans bill that came from the White House gave astonished observers a glimpse of that fearless, domineering character that lies beneath the pleasant exterior of the President. He assumed complete responsibility for killing the bill, offered no quarter, asked no quarter and challenged Congress to do its best.

And a bewildered Congress sustained his veto and looked sheepish, an appearance which it will wear on more than one occasion before Herbert Hoover is ready to quit the White House feeling that a difficult job has been fairly well done.

The House met at 12 o'clock noon and was called to order by the Speaker.

The Chaplain, Rev. James Shera Montgomery, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Our eternal Father, to Thee we come and yield ourselves. May we be dedicated anew to the glad service of our country, whose gifts and blessings are coextensive with the being of man. Bless us with the riches of Thy grace and with the consciousness of clean, manly living. Bid our souls to be at rest. Dismiss us with the suggestion of discord, and may we have the sense of proportion. Do Thou receive and then accept us for Thy mercy's sake. Crown us all with those virtues that are as the brightness of the firmament and even as the stars, for ever and ever. Hear us, our Father, and lead us in that path-way of purity and truth and justice that through Christ our Saviour. Amen.

Peter's Adventures

A SPRING IN HIS TAIL

"Hi, Yid! Who comes here?" On a sudden Brown Beetle interrupted the conversation between Peter and Water Measurer. Peter glanced about and saw nobody. Water Measurer's eyes were keener.

"Hello, Pond Skater!" shrilled he. "Come on over. The company's fine!" Over swam a lively little insect that resembled Water Measurer except that his body was fatter and his legs much longer. The little fellow skimmed over the water, swift as an arrow in his flight.

Pond skater had a restless disposition. He just couldn't keep still. Directly Water Measurer had told him who Peter was, he began to turn somersaults in the water. Pond Skater had not said one word, before along swam a third little insect who, just before joining the group bounded into the air like a rubber ball.

"Spring Tail, behave yourself!" said Water Measurer, sternly, and turned to apologize to Peter. "You'll have to pardon this cousin of ours, boy. He has a spring in his tail and it makes him do all manner of queer things."

Spring Tail had dropped back into the water, but at this remark he tucked his tail beneath his body, then let it snap out again, and the jerk sent him whirling up from the surface. Peter laughed heartily and clapped his hands.

"Fine!" cried he. "I wish I could do that, but I have no tail, to say nothing of not owning a spring. Jump some more. It's fun to watch you. Say, Water Measurer, what is Cousin Pond Skater doing?"

"Oh, just priming up," replied Water Measurer. "I don't believe there's a neater chap in the water or out of it than that cousin of mine. When Pond Skater isn't skipping ripples, he is cleaning his velvety coat, although nobody has ever been known to spy a speck of dust or a drop of water on it. His legs get wet, but never his coat. Clever fellow!"

Next: "Merry Spring Tail Comes to a Sad End."

Foster's Weather Forecast

WASHINGTON, July 5.—July is expected to average a very warm and stormy month; near July 2 is expected to be one of the hottest periods of month, but of short duration; storm wave expected to cross continent during week centering on 2, will not move far southward states, but will threaten hot winds in central Great Central valleys and high temperatures with severe local storms in central and northern Great Central valleys and eastern coast areas. Following storm center of 2, average temperatures will move to lower levels, resulting in a cool wave centering on 8, but not reach far below normal. July 4 always of more than usual interest in U. S., will average cool and dry on Pacific coast and in northwest, hot and dry in other sections. A tropical storm of considerable force is expected to form in Caribbean sea during last days of June and to reach North American latitudes during first days of July; this storm is expected to move too far eastward in Atlantic ocean to have much influence on North American cropweather, but the period should be watched closely. Storm wave of severe force is expected to cross continent during week centering on 12; this is expected to be the first of a series of storms covering the period 9 to 21, during this period, storm force will not be expected to be centered in a general storm, but to be felt thru severe local storms, heat and wind. Principal storm force during this period will center on 12, 16 and 20, with greatest force centering on 20. July 9 to 20 will be one of the dangerous cropweather periods of season, threatening damage from heat and dry winds.

Nature's Forces
Einstein has discarded the Ether of Space theory as unnecessary, has empty space eating up all bodies of the universe in an act of revenge, expects future man to discover a way to produce enough power from rain drop to almost run the universe. Such theories are always interesting, even tho they contradict each other. Of much greater importance to the peoples of this earth during the next few millions of years is the theory recently advanced by the Mt. Wilson Observatory thru (I. N. S.) as follows: "The newly discovered planet, Pluto, apparently wandered thru space, a cast off cold world of other universe, until at some unknown era in the past, the Sun, Neptune and Uranus reached out with their immense gravitational arms and captured it." This is but a rough, theoretical statement, but, like many of Jules Verne's fantasies, the basic principles of this statement will be recognized by future generations as true to the action of nature's forces. I cannot see the force of gravity working in an empty space, neither can I see Pluto as a cast off body of some other universe. All bodies of our solar system originated within that system.

OH, THESE WOMEN!
By LEOLA ALLARD

I. L. H. Seattle: I most certainly will NOT give you anybody's letter for a week. If you will be patient just reasonably brief I can answer you. But 18 pages fine handwriting—have a heart!

Myt. River Rouge, Michigan: If your children behave better because they were spanked, that's fine and dandy. When I got spanked I behaved worse. If your parents "sat on you" and you think it made you a better woman, I'm glad it did. But some children when they get "sat on" are not better. They like to be patted with and talked to and have things explained. If your neighbors visiting children misbehave, perhaps it is not because they need spanking. There are helpful things you can do for children besides spanking them. No I haven't children, but I've been a child and my sister is a teacher of them, an expert, too, and she doesn't find whipping necessary. She has surprising results making good children out of obstreperous ones. You'd be surprised.

Listen, you Motor Battalion Romeo from San Francisco. You are impatient. The right one will come along. Yes, I've had a college education but you don't want me. I know all about your climate. But people don't marry climate.

Myt. River Rouge, Michigan: If your children behave better because they were spanked, that's fine and dandy. When I got spanked I behaved worse. If your parents "sat on you" and you think it made you a better woman, I'm glad it did. But some children when they get "sat on" are not better. They like to be patted with and talked to and have things explained. If your neighbors visiting children misbehave, perhaps it is not because they need spanking. There are helpful things you can do for children besides spanking them. No I haven't children, but I've been a child and my sister is a teacher of them, an expert, too, and she doesn't find whipping necessary. She has surprising results making good children out of obstreperous ones. You'd be surprised.

Listen, you Motor Battalion Romeo from San Francisco. You are impatient. The right one will come along. Yes, I've had a college education but you don't want me. I know all about your climate. But people don't marry climate.

Dr. C. C. Green Is Accorded Honor

City School Head Returns From Convention At Columbus, Ohio

Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of schools, has returned home after attending the sessions of the National Educational Association in Columbus, Ohio. The sessions opened on Sunday, June 29, and closed this morning, but Dr. Green left before the closing session.

During the progress of the convention five delegates were chosen from the floor of the convention to present the cause of education to the service club of Columbus, Ohio. Dr. Green was honored in being asked to address the Exchange club.

One of the subjects of comment among the Pennsylvania delegation was the manner in which New Castle handled the Pennsylvania convention in December 1929.

Among the speakers addressing the N. E. A. convention were Congressman Ruth Bryan Owen, Lt. Col. U. S. Grant 3rd. The newly elected president is Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta Georgia Schools, who succeeds Ruth Purdie of Lincoln, Nebraska, as the retiring president.

Fines Assessed In Automobile Crash

Alderman Finds That Both Johnston And Cotherman Did Not Use Due Care

In the case of Ralph Johnston of Scott township, and Dan Cotherman of Knox, Pa., who were charged with reckless driving before Alderman Mantz, a fine of $10 and costs was assessed on each. Facts developed at the hearing showed that Johnston had stopped at the West garage on the Harlansburg road. He started to pull out from the garage to a road leading north, when he was hit by the Cotherman machine. Johnston said that he saw the machine coming at a speed he estimated at 45 miles per hour, when he started to cross the road. The alderman was of the opinion that Johnston had not used due care in starting across, when the Cotherman car was so close, and that Cotherman might have avoided the accident had he not been traveling at a high rate of speed. No one was hurt in the crash.

The charge was brought by State Highway Patrolman Rothenway, who was called to the scene.

THE TOWN DOCTOR "DOCTOR OF TOWNS" SAYS

TO BE AMERICAN MEANS TO GO PLACES AND SEE THINGS
The average American believes that to travel is to live. We come by that belief honestly. It is a part of our make up and dates back to time of the beginning of this good ol' U. S. A.

If Columbus hadn't had the "urge" to go places and see things he would never been able to "sell" Queen Elizabeth on the idea of rigging up a few sail boats for him to go out to Sea, to see what there was to see. Columbus was a salesman. He wanted to go places, and he wanted so badly to go that he got what he wanted.

Everybody that followed Columbus across the briny deep had this same "urge". They heard about this land of red men, wild chickens, buffalo and honey; and, not being stick-in-the-muds, afraid to do something different from their fathers and grandfathers before them did, they started and kept going until they arrived.

After they had seen about all there was to see where they first made contact with the promised land they still had the "urge"—they wanted to see how much more there was to see.

At first they walked. Then they rode creatures which walked. They next rode behind those creatures which walked until, desiring to see more of that which there was to see more quickly—and desiring this earnestly enough—they invented that means—steam locomotion.

But that left short of filling the bill, for these people were the kind of people that were never satisfied. They wanted to see all there was to see when they pleased and how they pleased. So came automobiles.

And here we are in this wonderful day of 1930, with all Americans going where they please, when they please, as they please which makes "Going Places" the greatest and largest business in all the world. And this is the average American community's opportunity.

Regardless of your line of business, or what you do to make a living, you are affected by motor travel. Therefore it is good business on your part to encourage and do what you can to help New Castle get as much as possible of the business to be had from traffic.

The problem that confronts most communities is not to get traffic, but to induce that traffic to stop. Automobiles on a highway are to a town what pedestrians on the sidewalk are to a store. The store cannot sell the passerby unless the people come into the store; likewise a town cannot sell the motorist unless the car is stopped and the passengers alight therefrom.

This necessitates a place for the motorist to stop or leave his car—and therein is the problem. Not an unsolvable one however, if that which is commonly referred to as "the noodle" is used. The biggest problem is to get the people in the community to use "the noodle".

There has been repeatedly given in this column facts and figures on the value of motor traffic—facts that are proven, showing that with hundreds of communities the possible or potential cash value is equal to and above the total payroll of the community.

Like everything else worth while, a community cannot sell itself to Motor Traffic, nor can a community get the thousands and thousands of dollars obtainable from this traffic, if they do not work and DO SOMETHING to get it.

Other towns have taken heed and ARE getting this business—ARE selling themselves to the traveler. New Castle can do likewise if the people, business concerns and business organizations will take advantage of the opportunity, "take telling", and get going to GO GET IT.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

John Paul Jones
Conclusion

AFTER SERVING A NUMBER OF YEARS AS AN ADMIRAL IN THE RUSSIAN NAVY, JOHN PAUL JONES WENT TO PARIS, WHERE HE DIED VERY SUDDENLY IN 1792 AT THE AGE OF 45.

(Copyright, 1930, by J. Carroll Mansfield)

THE FAMOUS SEA FIGHTER WAS BURIED QUIETLY IN A LEADEN COFFIN IN A LITTLE CEMETERY IN THE SUBURBS OF PARIS. AFTER MANY YEARS THE CEMETERY WAS ABANDONED, AND HOUSES WERE BUILT OVER IT.

AMERICA LOST SIGHT OF THE GRAVE OF HER FIRST NAVAL HERO, BUT HIS LOYAL SERVICES WERE NOT FORGOTTEN. IN 1905 GEN. HORACE PORTER, AMERICAN AMBASSADOR TO FRANCE, AFTER A LONG SEARCH, LOCATED THE OLD CEMETERY AND EXCAVATED JONES' CASKET.

THE REMAINS OF JOHN PAUL JONES WERE BROUGHT TO THE UNITED STATES ON A WARSHIP, RECEIVED AT ANNAPOLIS WITH IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES AND PLACED IN A CRYPT BENEATH THE CHAPEL OF THE NAVAL ACADEMY, WHERE THEY LIE TODAY.

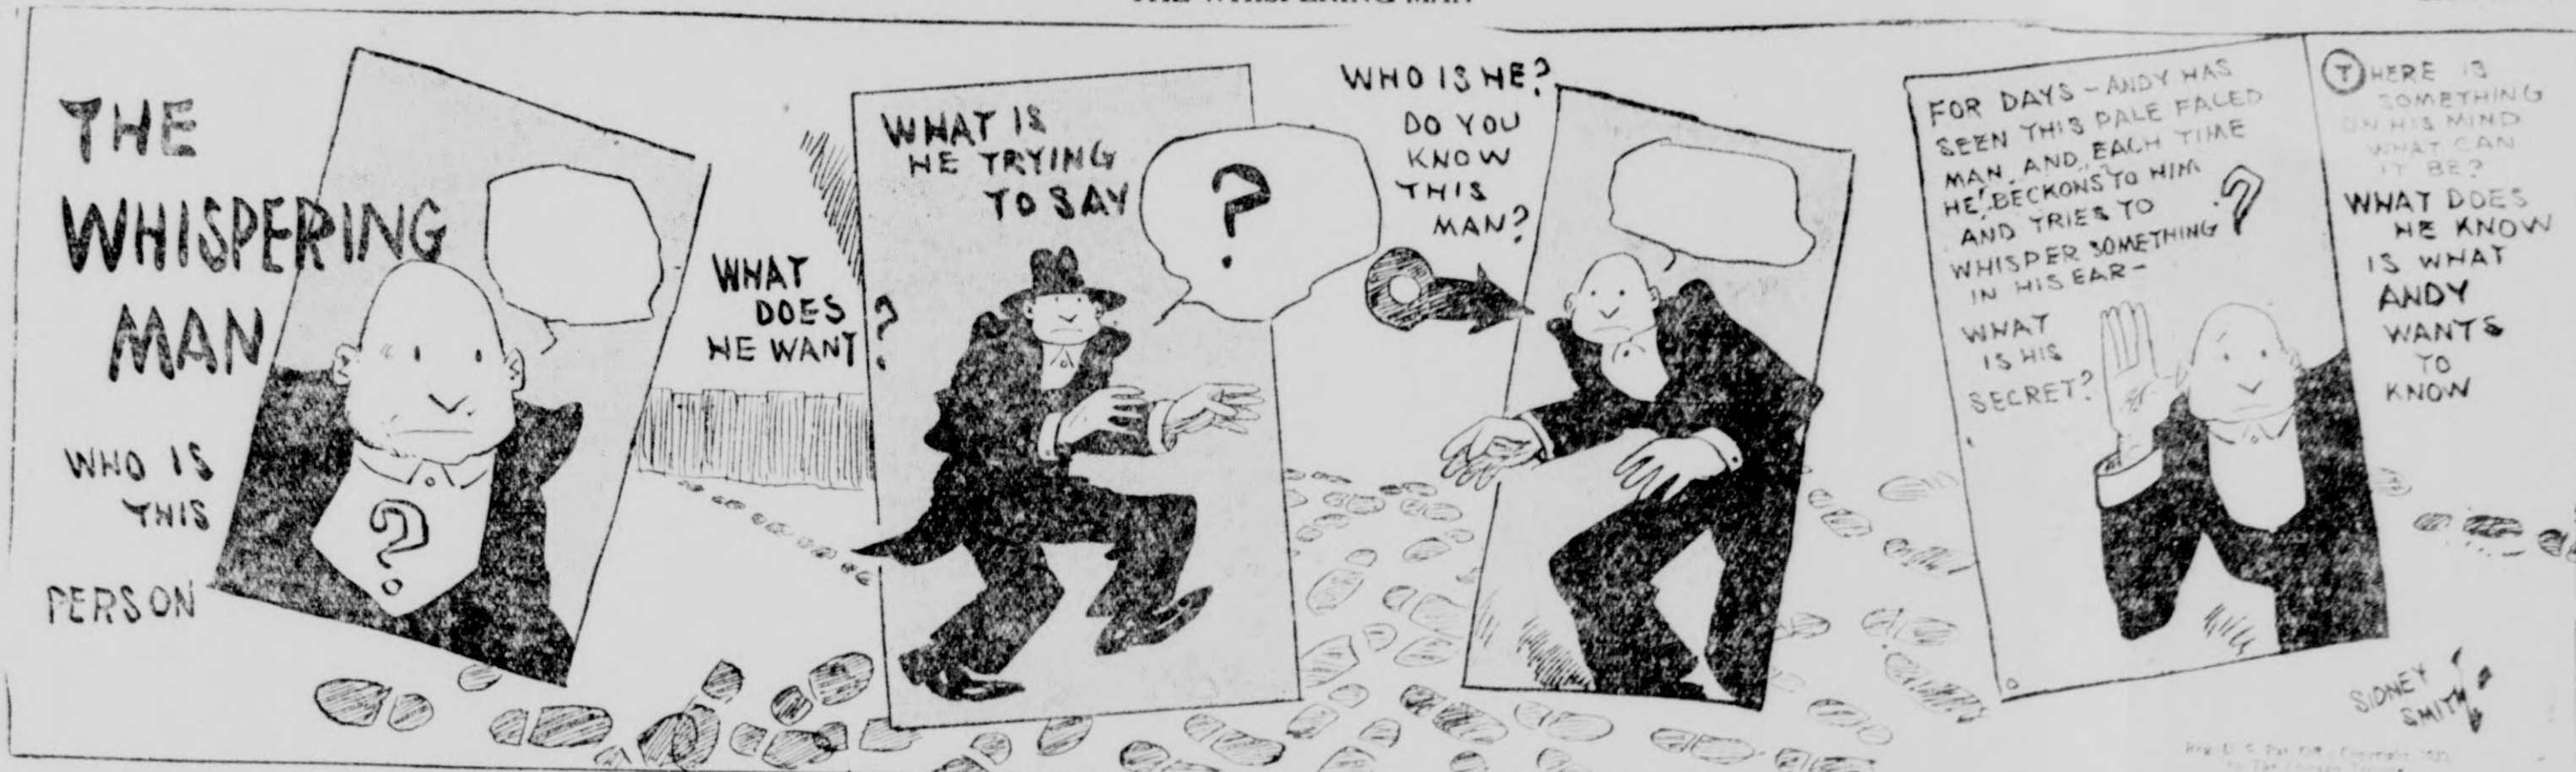

Candidates who think it is dishonorable to lie about rival office seekers.

"Dimkey" Engine Collides With Freight Shifter

No Person Hurt When Short Line Passenger Train Collides

ELLWOOD CITY, July 5.—No one was injured when the P. & L. E. short line of the N. Y. C. passenger train was derailed about 5:30 last evening.

The engine was badly damaged and has been removed to the college yard. The baggage coach also came in for its share of destruction.

It is believed that the wreck which occurred in front of the P. & L. E. station here, was caused by a mix up in signals.

The freight train shifting hit the passenger train, causing the damage.

Birthday Party At Thorpe Home

ELLWOOD CITY, July 5.—A good time was had by all, but then one always expects a good time when a young lady is about to celebrate her birthday.

Margaret Jane daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Thorpe of Pershing avenue enjoyed her party, Thursday as much as her guests, and especially the big cake with its lighted candles.

After numerous exciting games in the garden, the children were invited to the dining room where a lovely color scheme of pink and green was carried out.

Guests of the afternoon included: May Burrows, Julia McLaughlin, Ruth Snyder, Ruth Cox, Ermina Teck, Bertha Lusher, Katherine Menold, Alice Lindgren, Anna May McCloskey, Betty Jane Crowe, Gertrude Crade, Maryland Neff, Florence Lutz, Jean Wallis, Katherine Eicholtz, Jean Barkley and Josephine Pichler.

As he saw the frightened child and heard the frantic cry, he rushed to her rolling her over and over on the grass, until all flames were extinguished.

The child was immediately rushed to a local physician who said that the burns resulting were not deep.

Little Mary, was hit by an automobile just one year ago, and the shock to her nervous system was great. Not wishing her to lose the fun at the party last night, some one handed her the burning sparkler which she dropped on her dress.

Ellwood City Splits Even In Double Bill

Ellwood City Wins First Game From Beaver Falls 10-6; Loses Second 3-1

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., July 5.—After defeating the strong Beaver Falls Merchants by the score of 10-6 in the morning contest, the Ellwood City sluggers returned to their home field in the afternoon and dropped a close tilt to the same aggregation with the count of 3 to 1. The first battle gave the Tubers their fourth consecutive victory.

Morning Game
Boyle took the mound for Ellwood in the first fray and pitched a steady ball game after a disastrous opening frame when the opponents garnered four tallies on him. The enemy was able to collect only two more markers during the remainder of the fray.

Cowie and Fred Sanders lead the heavy attack for the winners as the former clouted out a home run and two doubles and Fred collected four bingles.

He and Fitzgerald crossed the plate three times apiece. Fritz made good use of the stick for the Merchants as he secured three bingles and McGinley clouted out a homer and a single.

Afternoon Game
In the afternoon clash that took place on the local grounds, Mundo was given mound duty while Whitmore hurled for the valley crew. The former was especially effected as he left the visitors down with only six hits. He also had a poor opening session.

Clarke starred at bat for the locals with three bingles and Fitzgerald and Lattano were close to him with two apiece. Mike Sanders scored Ellwood City's lone tally with a long drive clout. Garba and McGinley starred for the winners with two hits apiece.

One of Garba's was good for three bases. Ellwood City has the distinction of being the only team besides the Beaver Grays to hand the Beaver Falls team a defeat. The Merchants won the first half of the Beaver County League.

Today, Ellwood City travels to Amherst to clash with that club. Tests, the Tubers latest recruit may be called on to hurl.

Two Planes Will Try For New Record

Effort Will Be Made To Better
New Endurance Record
Made By Hunter
Brothers

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 5.—Two planes were scheduled to take off from Roosevelt Field here tomorrow in an effort to wreck the new endurance record made by the Hunter brothers at Chicago.

If the department of commerce gives approval the aviators will adhere to a plan of changing pilots every 48 hours. First request to the department for approval of this plan were refused. The relief flyers will enter the planes from rope ladders or from another ship and the men relieved will leave off in parachutes.

Should the department continue to refuse approval, two pilots will remain in the planes throughout the flight.

The flyers attempting the assault on the Hunter record are members of the John S. Donaldson Flying Circus of Detroit. The ships are Stinson monoplanes. A plane of the same type will be used for refueling.

ROAMING

With Richards
Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations
Of Interesting Things around New Castle

Looking around the office today is a birdseye view of all shades of sunburn. Anything from the deep pink sported by the young lady with the speckled dress to shade of sole leather carried around by a few of the lads who went out without a hat.

Everyone seems to have a hangover today, but nothing worse than one caught by indulgence in sunshine. No Dexter, not moonshine.

A check-up (we're heavy on check-ups) reveals the fact that 17 per cent of the sunburned crew got their swimming, 19 3-4 per cent got their picnics, 11 1-10 per cent got their hoeing corn, less than one-half of one per cent got their playing golf, and the balance came from just walking.

Spent the afternoon out where traffic is almost unknown, where the sun seldom gets in, and where the ground is carpeted with leaves and twigs, out along the Slippery Rock. Not at the usual pleasure spots on the creek, but at a point where the rush of the miniature waterfalls sounds like a roar.

The kind of a spot folks ride a couple of days to see, spend a lot of money and time and talk about all winter. Here in Lawrence county we have such spots at our back door almost, and the cost is little. This particular spot is located down the creek from the Heinz House camp, back up a young mountain from the creek, in a forest filled with beeches, maples, oaks, dogwood and birches.

All through the forest are evidences of the eternal struggle for a place in the sun. The survival of the fittest is the rule and the ground is strewn with saplings which have given up the fight for life. But the winners, these tall stately trees that have won, have risen above the tops of their less successful neighbors to branch out in the sunlight that seldom gets through to the earth.

Here one can imagine the ancient Druids holding their Druidic rights in a cathedral built by Nature. The chirp of a flicker or the industrious tapping of a woodpecker reverberates through the forest like a rivet hammer, and now and then one can hear, but not see, some airman winging his way east or west. There are no roadhouses out there, but telephones are electric lights, but for a real day of enjoyment, for a rest that really is a rest, it's the place.

Not even such a lovely spot is safe from the vandals, however. Noticed one spot along the road, a bank leading down to a scenic canyon, where some human hog had left a lot of garbage. Old cardboard cartons, remains of food, paper, glass and tin cans, thrown over to mar the picture and offend the nostrils. Such a person is the type who would cover a Corot or a Velasquez with whitewash or chip up a statue of Michelangelo with concrete.

Such people would probably be happy on a city dump, for to them the untamed spots where Nature has been extravagant is nothing more than a dumping ground.

Visited the Heinz House camp in the afternoon, and those kids from Pittsburgh can give us lots of points on appreciation. For two weeks in the summer they trade the sun-baked sidewalks of the Northside, Pittsburgh, for the sun and air of the Slippery Rock Creek and from the appearance of the shoulders of the newcomers they were trying to soak up all the sun in the township.

FRANKOVICH SWIMS
OHIO COURSE TODAY

Delaying his swim down the Ohio river until today, Joseph Frankovich, local long-distance swimmer, accompanied by a party of friends, left the city early today for Rochester, where he was to have commenced a 20-mile swim down the Ohio river which would carry him below East Liverpool, Ohio.

Frankovich, who attempted a similar swim last year, but lost after when he became tangled in river grass after covering the first 12 miles, was to have plunged into the river shortly after 8 o'clock. He estimated the swim would require eight hours.

A party of friends was to accompany him in a rowboat.

Contractor Dies
After Getting Job

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 5.—Within a few hours after he had been granted the contract for the construction of a bridge over Redstone creek on Penn street, Contractor Louis Costa died in Dickerson Run. Now the city and county officials are up against a perplexing question. If the estate of the contractor does not execute the contract, as awarded, then the heirs will suffer a loss of a $950 check which was posted with the bids as evidence of good faith.

Old "Detour Road" Has Been Improved

Work that has been in progress for some weeks in Neshannock township has resulted in a transformation being made in the highway from the end of Highland avenue to Walmo on the Wilmington road, the route used as a detour last year.

The roadway has been built up with slag and ashes and now presents a fine surface as far as completed. It is believed that it will hold up permanently.

The first speed law passed in America was drawn by the board of selectmen of Boston, in 1757. The law read as follows: "Owing to great danger arising oftentimes from coaches, sleighs, chairs and other carriages on the Lord's days, as people are going to or coming from the several churches in this town, being driven with great rapidity, and the public worship being oftentimes much disturbed by such carriages, it is therefore voted and ordered that no coach, sleigh, chair, chaise or other carriage at such time be driven at a greater rate than a foot-pace, on penalty to the master of the slave or servant so driving of the sum of ten shillings."

Fourth Is Quiet;
Fireworks Scarce

New Castle had the quietest Fourth in many years, yesterday.

The ban on fireworks inside the city was rigidly observed, and there was little noise in the city during the day.

Even outside the city where there was considerable use of fireworks last year, and much din, the Fourth seemed to be quieter than usual.

Few accidents have been reported.

Safety Sam

A real American is a guy who sensibly cautions kids to be careful in crossing streets and then goes on dashes out in front of a car, himself.
